WOJCIECH LASOTA

I'm a passionate Computer Science student that's more than halfway into their Bachelor of Engineering degree. I go out of my way to find engaging projects for myself and do not just stick to the university curriculum. Last year I started going through the open-source Odin Project that was a head start into web development for me. Since then, I've picked up more projects for myself to improve my JavaScript, including React, which are publicly viewable on my GitHub. I'm looking forward to working in a professional setting and gaining more experience that way. I enjoy picking up things myself and don't require hand-holding.
